Norfolk & Norwich Open Studios

Information for schools

Norfolk & Norwich Open Studios (NNOS) takes place annually. Artists across the county open up their studio doors during a 16-day period in May/June to meet the public and show and sell their work, thereby maintaining and broadening the audience for local visual arts work. In 2017, an estimated 28,000 members of the public roamed the county to visit over 515 participating artists in 254 studios.

Since 2010 the scheme has been opened up to include Norfolk Schools and in 2017, 13 Norfolk schools were involved and they received an estimated 1,430 visitors overall.

Entry to studios is free for members of the public.

What schools need to do to be part of NNOS

- Open their school and/or other exhibition venue to the public for a minimum of one day or evening, at times of their own choosing during NNOS 2018 dates (Saturday 26 May – Sunday 10 June)
- Exhibit any visual arts work that pupils at the school have produced during the last school year. This can be final pieces of work or even work in progress. What you show and how you show it is up to you – the more imaginative or interactive, the better.
- Exhibit work by pupils in the school itself or at an external venue

Promotion of NNOS Schools

All participating schools will feature in the NNOS brochure (print run of 35,000) and on the NNOS website. NNOS branded posters and postcards are also produced and distributed across the county, and articles published in the local press. Each participating school is also expected to promote their own event(s) with the help of a schools' marketing pack, supplied by the NNOS office.

NNOS School Taster Exhibition & Arts Award Discover event

All participating schools have the opportunity to exhibit in the 'NNOS School Taster Exhibition' held at a venue in central Norwich. The exhibition works as a preview of the scheme and of Norfolk children's artwork.

Alongside this exhibition we offer a special event for schools to attend which will include an opportunity for young people to gain their Arts Award Discover.

Arts Award and Artsmark supporter

Norfolk & Norwich Open Studios supports young people in the delivery of their Arts Award and schools in achieving their Artsmark. Why not use this year's Norfolk & Norwich Open Studios to support your students' Arts Award or gain your school's Artsmark? For more information, email ros@nnfestival.org.uk.
